

Achieving SOC2 and HIPAA Compliance with Data Obfuscation

Compliance is no longer just a checklist; it requires proactive technical controls.

One of the most effective controls is limiting access to production data. By substituting sensitive production data with masked data in lower environments, companies can significantly reduce their audit scope and breach risk.

Learn how to build a continuous compliance pipeline in this guide.